New Berlin is Springing Back and Moving Forward

As spring arrives in New Berlin, your Village team is busily working not just to bring the community we call home back to normal but to move it forward. As we carefully, but aggressively work to launch on this new course, I would like to share some of the actions, objectives, and milestones that I believe will keep us on course.

Our overall plan of action is built on two foundational themes: 1) greater collaboration, and 2) a revitalized infrastructure. Collaboration means working with the talented individuals and organizations in our community to create expanded opportunities and better products and services for our residents. That process has already started: The Town of New Berlin and Village of New Berlin are working very closely - Town Supervisor Bob Starr physically attends monthly Village meetings and I attend those of the Town. Being “in the audience” allows us to better share information about upcoming projects and events. It’s also an opportunity to openly discuss common challenges and more clearly see ways we might work together. There’s wisdom in the old expression: Working together allows you to “Make-One-Plus-One-Equal-Three.”

Another blooming partnership is with Unadilla Valley Central School. The flowers in planters you see throughout the Village were grown at the school’s greenhouses by the talented FFA Students under the direction of Jessica DeVries. Projects like this are a “win-win” for the students and the Village: And I’m confident that we’ve only scratched the surface.

Nearly every day we receive an offer from a local organization such as the New Berlin Rotary, a business, or an individual wishing to be part of this “move forward”. Sometimes only an hour or two can make a huge difference. That community spirit is what has always made New Berlin a great place to live. If you’d like to be part of our move forward, don’t hesitate to contact me, your Village Office or a member of your Village team.

Our second core theme is infrastructure: I believe that infrastructure is a key to both the health and safety of our residents and the economic future of our Village. While the term infrastructure is like an octopus its tentacles stretching into many program areas, I believe our infrastructure starts with well-lit streets and safe drinking water. Preferred Mutual presents plaque to New Berlin Firehouse

NEW BERLIN – Preferred Mutual dedicated a plaque of the Firefighter’s Prayer which was placed on the newly built New Berlin Firehouse. According to Preferred Mutual representatives, the plaque was presented to the New Berlin Firehouse on May 18, and in attendance at the dedication were members of the community, firefighters and officers, local elected officials, and representatives of Preferred Mutual.

“Strength. Courage. Faith. Sacrifice – These sentiments are captured within the Firefighter’s Prayer, and they are in each and every volunteer responder,” said Preferred Mutual President and CEO Chris Taft. “We hope this plaque gives our first responders the courage to push forward, no matter what the challenge may be, and provide a reminder of the important and indispensable work they do every single day.”

New Berlin is Springing Back and Moving Forward —

Potter and the previous Village Board, you will soon enjoy brighter, more cost-efficient LED lights above our streets.

We will also soon be submitting applications for Federal and State grants to renovate and repair our drinking water storage and distribution network. Over the last several years the Village of New Berlin has worked hard to ensure a steady flow of quality drinking water through the Village system, but many of these actions and reactions have only been costly “band-aids” on an aging network. This year offers a unique set of opportunities. The American Recovery Program (often referred to as the COVID-19 Recovery Program) and numerous state recovery programs are making unprecedented amounts funding available for water projects through grants and low-interest loans. Our focus will be primarily going after grants (which we don’t have to pay back and thus don’t impact our taxes) with vigor. We will keep you updated on this fast-moving train. In the coming weeks you’ll also be hearing more about our efforts in the key infrastructure areas of hi-speed internet and waste-water collection and treatment.

Underlying any action taken by your Village team will be two foundational principles: Communication and accountability. We will remain transparent and adhere to the procedures, laws, and ethical standards demanded by those we serve. We will strive to keep our residents informed and we respect and value your input.

I encourage you to complete one of the questionnaires currently at the Post Office, Library and other locations around town—this will help us refine our vision and priorities. As we work to expand our use of social media usage, I encourage you to subscribe to the Village’s text-notification service; it’s free and helps you stay informed on local events. Details are on the Village of New Berlin website at http://thevillageofnewberlin.org/

This year, in spite of the revenue challenges associated with COVID and a decrease in overall taxable property value, the Village was able to keep its tax rate well below the 2-per-cent increase cap mandated by the state. We will continue to actively scrutinize our expenditures and are committed to managing your (and our) tax dollars responsibly.

We have an outstanding Village Trustees (Michelle Priloa, David Smith, Jamie Burchill, and Megan Brenna), Village Clerk/Treasurer (Kelly Anderson), and Public Works team (headed by Jared Kline). Our Ambulance Service (headed by Dale Barton) and Volunteer Fire Department (Fire Chief Don Anderson) join me in their passion for this Village. By working together in a focused, transparent and accountable manner, I believe New Berlin is poised to move forward and achieve its full potential.

Finally, I ask that you mark your calendars for two upcoming Village events—On May 31st, New Berlin’s Memorial Day Parade and Ceremony will start at 9:30 A.M. at Hyde Park and proceed to the field in front of Milford Academy, and On June 19th, the Village will be hosting the Community Yard Sale—watch for details in the coming weeks. I encourage you to stay tuned and become engaged as we Move New Berlin Forward.

— Peter S. Lennon, Mayor

These vaccines rank with water sanitation, mosquito netting for malaria, and smallpox vaccination in the prevention of death. These are exceptional and effective. There has been no medical intervention on this scale that has been true in all of history. So how is it that people remain hesitant, and doubt is common.

Think of this: it 100 times more likely to die of COVID-19 than to have a serious reaction to these vaccines. So where is the disconnect?

Our beliefs come to us over time and start in our earliest consciousness. These beliefs are based on our experiences, internal and external.

They start with the our mother’s warm embrace, our falling down and being picked up, our encounter with NOL, the words of our favorite teacher, input from our eyes and ears and how we examine the world and read its lessons.

We test these experiences, developing and sharpening our trust. We are always, always honing our trust; as when I sit in that rickety old chair, look into my partners eyes, or listen to those we take as leaders. In the end, what kills Life is Trust.

Many are those who think giving out facts removes doubt. Many sow doubt to enhance their power. Neither demonstrates a caring attitude for those simply trying to live as best as they are able.

Those are folks who can’t know it all, can’t see the Big Picture, and have rational questions. Which is all of us. We cannot negate someone’s experience, their thoughts and ideas. That IS their reality. As caregivers (all who want the best for their neighbors) we can only add to their experience. How? By increasing that most important of qualities, Trust. No one hears anything until they hear trust in the voice.

OUTDOOR CHENANGO

MRI for Turkeys

As turkey season has hit the halfway point, things can seem to get worse as birds start to gobble less as more and more hens leave them to go sit on their nests. This lack of available hens can make toms start to wander farther than they did earli-er in the season, just like a rutting buck will cover miles to find a receptive doe in the fall. Therefore, you need to follow your MRI (most recent information).

Scouting in the middle of the season can be a difficult decision to make but it can pay off handsomely. Driving around in the middle to late morning will let you see toms out on their strut zones, trying to entice any remaining hens to breed with them. Knowing where toms are going when they are lonely lets you slip in and get him to make a mistake.

Just noting where you hear birds gobbling in the roost in the morning can give you a general sense of direction to head later if your hunt is not success-ful that right after fly down.

When I was in col-lege, I had been home for summer break for just a couple of days when a farmer called me to tell me he saw a tom alone strutting in one of his fields around ten o'clock that morn-ing. That night I went out and spotted that key in the woodlot next to the field. The next morning, I set two hen decoys and a full strut decoy in the field while I sat right on the field edge.

At first, a hen was calling from the same area as the tom gobbled but after flying down, she went the opposite direction. As I started to lose some of my hope in the hunt, I looked to my left down the field edge and spotted a tur-ky key walking out into the field about 80 yards away. As the bird made it a few steps out, he popped into strut for a second before stretch-ing his neck to look at my decoys. In a mat-ter of seconds, that tom was on top of my decoy, because I do fast that I could only put down the pan call in my hand but could not get my shot-gun up. After getting a few good whacks on my decoy, the decoy tipped over and the tom spun around it and started to strut. This made his tail fan hide me from his vision, allowing me to get a good shot and turn the safety off.

When he stopped strutting and raised my head, I pulled the trigger and he fell in a heap. That was the first turkey that I had called in and harvest-ed myself. It is due solely to the fact that the farmer called me because I did not even know he owned this property until he called that night (it is about a mile from his milk house and barn).

Unfortunately, he hunted with me in case I catch- ed a turkey. This past weekend I almost got the bet-ter of a sneaky tom who has been playing cat and mouse with me this year. The first time he went to my property, I walked up from below him and set up within 50 yards of his roost. He would gobble at my calls but not every time. Then he would fly down and go to the opposite direction, into a large field that is owned by someone else.

He would walk back and forth in the field for a bit before wander- off. This is his strutt- ing and running routine to meet up with hens. So, at 8:30 in the mor- ning this weekend, I snuck into the corner of the property I can hunt so I was only a couple hundred yards from his strut zone and called. He gobbled and I scrambled to get setup in the woods hoping he would come out of the field to check out my calling (I did not bring a decoy with me).

Unfortunately, he stayed up in the field the rest of the weekend. I almost got the bet-ter of a sneaky tom who has been playing cat and mouse with me this year. The first time he went to my property, I walked up from below him and

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you’ll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here’s How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
A Celebration of Commerce Chenango: Local businesses to be recognized at gala

Congratulations to the following winners:

Earlville High School’s Baily Mizrahi, who is enrolling at SUNY Cortland to pursue a degree in early childhood/childhood education.

At the conclusion of the scholarship ceremony, the newest members of Chenango’s Heritage “Wall of Honor” will be revealed. The “Wall of Honor” is a meaningful way to recognize some- one and a thoughtful way to support the mission of CCHS. A donation is made in honor of a recognized individual, and their name is then displayed on the “Wall of Honor” inside the main entrance of Ward School No. 2.

Additional information on each honoree will be featured in an upcoming virtual experience. Both award presentations will be held at the David & Carol Miller Pavilion, located adjacent to the parking lot at 41 Rexford St. on the CCHS campus.

The afternoon will also feature an open house in The Loomis Barn until 4:30 p.m. Home of the Marshman Agriculture Education Center, The Loomis Barn honors the enduring agricultural cultural heritage of Chenango County from the Civil War era through the present.

During Path Through History Weekends, special events are held to highlight historically significant sites, and offer new perspectives on New York State heritage. All visitors must follow standard contact-tracing, mask-wearing, and social-distancing guidelines. For more information, visit www.ChenangoHistorical.org or call (607) 334-9227, ext. 2.

County museum plans ‘Path Through History’ celebration

NORWICH – The Chenango County Historical Society (CCHS) will be open to host a special program on June 19, with several activities planned in celebration of Path Through History Weekend. Beginning at 3:30 p.m., “David Maydole: An ‘Adz’ Eye for Innovation” exhibit will be unveiled. Celebrating the remarkable legacy of the Oxford blacksmith whose hammer design forever changed toolboxes, this unique exhibit is located both inside and outside of the James S. Flanagan Research Center, located on the CCHS campus at 43 Rexford St. Maydole’s adz-eye hammer – featuring a wooden handle that fit into the hammer’s blade – was significantly safer than previous versions of the tool.

Having resolved the worry of a hammer head “flying off the handle,” Maydole became the largest hammer manufacturer in the U.S. Even after his death in 1892, the various businesses which occupied the Maydole Hammer Factory structure continued to innovate with a variety of new product lines – including ice skates – until the plant closed in 1961.

Immediately follow this exhibit opening, join CCHS for a brief awards ceremony when the Elinor Robb Troickie Memorial Scholarship will be presented to two graduating high school seniors from Chenango County: Amy Avolio from Unadilla Valley Central School, who plans to study game design and development at the Rochester Institute of Technology, and Sherburne-Earlville High School’s Baily Mizrahi, who is enrolling at SUNY Cortland to pursue a degree in early childhood/childhood education.

At the conclusion of the scholarship ceremony, the newest members of Chenango’s Heritage “Wall of Honor” will be revealed. Legal community comes together to congratulate local mock trial efforts

BY ZACHARY Meseck
GAZETTE STAFF WRITER

NORWICH – After a hard fought season, the Norwich Mock Trial team placed first in Chenango County, and made it to the semi-finals in New York State for the first time in many years and despite the difficulties of the pandemic.

The event occurred at 9 a.m. on Friday morning and numerous local legal representatives and judicial representatives were in attendance.

New York State Supreme Court Appellate Division Justice Elizabeth Garry spoke at the event and applauded the Norwich Mock Trial team’s efforts, along with the efforts of all the guest judges that helped throughout the year.

Chenango County Bar Association President Claudette Newman also spoke at the event, and commended the students for their dedication during the pandemic.

“You had done so well locally, so to hear that you went on to go into the regions, and then onto the semi-finals - I’m very proud of you,” said Garry. “Thank you to everyone who was involved in making this happen.”

“On behalf of the bar I welcome all of you and congratulate the Norwich team for winning this year’s county championship and for doing so well on the statewide champion,” said Newman. “You guys adapted much better than we did to going virtual, and you should be commended for that.”

“I watched a lot of the competitions, and you all did so well.”
