New Berlin gets help cutting red tape to secure promised state funding for fire department

BY TYLER MURPHY
GAZETTE EDITOR

NEW BERLIN - After years of bureaucratic delay in Albany, the Village of New Berlin has finally received $150,000 in state reimbursement funds for its modern firehouse and adjacent community center.

Local New Berlin officials held a ceremony on Wednesday at the fire station marking the decision and thanked state representatives for getting the state to fulfill their commitments.

They said the funding, originally secured more than a decade ago through the efforts of the late State Senator Jim Seward, had been stalled for years due to what officials described as a “political logjam.” However officials said New York State Senator Joseph Griffo stepped in to aid local residents and the fire service.

New Berlin Mayor Peter Lennon credited Senator Griffo and his staff for pushing through the delays and working with the New York State Dormitory Authority to finalize the reimbursement.

“This beautiful facility had been targeted and essentially scripted as early as the last decade,” Lennon said during remarks at the firehouse. “We’d been waiting for the reimbursement since well before 2020, and thanks to Senator Griffo and his persistent team, we were able to work through the Dormitory Authority and finally get this done. The people of New Berlin are safer because of this, and the quality of life has gone up to the next level.”

The $150,000 reimbursement is part of a $1.6 million project that included the construction of a modern fire facility and the Chobani Community Center at 75 S. Main Street. The combined structure serves as both an emergency services hub and a public gathering space for residents.

Senator Griffo, (R-C-Rome) said the funding was long overdue and emphasized his focus on cutting through state bureaucracy to fulfill commitments made to local communities.

“When Albany owes you money, they find every reason not to deliver it,” Senator Griffo said.

“This community had been promised this funding, and it was our priority to make sure it was finally delivered. Hopefully Senator

DeLaney, VP of Operations at Raymond presented an educational piece, there were associate presentations from Lee Moxley, Ashley Lyons, interactive booths, tours, and more. Later that day, Raymond executives and community members gathered at the Northeast Classic Car Museum in Norwich to celebrate Raymond being selected as the 2025 Commerce Chenango Manufacturer of the Year. The company received this award, as well as a citation from New York State Senator Peter Oberacker, in acknowledgment of their ongoing impact on the economic prosperity of Chenango County.

At the event, Commerce Chenango President and CEO Sal Testani said, “A company like Raymond doesn’t just make forklifts, they make opportunities for our entire community. To have an internationally traded company based here in Chenango County is an amazing opportunity for people to never have to leave our community and still work on tremendous products like Raymond forklifts.” The company was founded in Greene, after George Raymond Sr. purchased a foundry (Lyon Iron Works) in 1922.

Throughout the century in Chenango County, Raymond gained many patents for innovative solutions, from the Double-Faced Wooden Pallet and the Hydraulic Hand Lift Truck to the first Narrow Aisle Truck. The Raymond Corporation celebrated its 11th annual Manufacturing Day this week by welcoming young students and talented professionals to experience valuable career education. The annual event has been celebrated by The Manufacturing Institute in partnership with the National Association of Manufacturers (NAM) since 2012, with the official date landing on the first Friday of every October. DeLaney, VP of Operations at Raymond said, “Talented and creative minds are always needed in the supply chain workforce, which is why we host this yearly event. We want to support an environment for students to gain knowledge and envision a future career in manufacturing.” For over a century, Raymond has worked tirelessly to create a future-forward organization focused on innovation and constant improvement. “Investing in students and education is a crucial part of not only their future, but ours, too,” DeLaney said. “By inspiring and handing them an inside look into growing areas such as manufacturing, AI advancements and sustainability, we’re supporting the next talent that’s going to take our industry to the next level. In addition to our non-stop improvement, we are proud to be fueling the student’s journey, as well.” For more information about Manufacturing Day and Raymond’s training and solutions, visit www.raymondcorp.com. The Raymond Corporation, a member of the Toyota Industries family of companies, is a leading global provider of best-in-class material handling products and intelligent intralogistics solutions.

Built on principles of innovation and continuous improvement for over 100 years, Raymond’s integrated automation, telematics, virtual reality and advanced energy solutions provide ways to optimize operations and bring warehouse and distribution operations performance. Raymond electric forklift trucks are engineered to achieve increased productivity and efficiency. They are designed to provide ecological and economic benefits. Raymond delivers solutions to material handling and logistics markets in North America and globally.

New Berlin gets help cutting red tape to secure promised state funding for fire department -

Seward is looking down and smiling, because he identified this project and laid the groundwork years ago.” “I am pleased to have cut through the bureaucracy and red tape to get the Village of New Berlin the grant it had secured years ago,” Griffo said. Griffo also noted the project demonstrates how state and local collaboration can strengthen public safety. “The New Berlin Fire Department provides critical protection for life and property,” he said. “With this funding, they’ll be able to enhance services and maintain the equipment necessary to keep this community safe,” he said. Mayor Lennon explained that during the years of delay, the village redirected internal funds to complete construction, leaving the fire department short on equipment spending. “We robbed Peter to pay Paul to do this,” Lennon said. “We kept the building on track, but it meant the fire department had to stretch its resources. Now, with the reimbursement finally received, we can replenish those needs.” Fire Commissioner and Deputy Mayor

Dave Smith called the facility “a landmark” for the community. “It’s not only a beautiful fire facility, but also a community center we’re proud to call our home,” Smith said. The Dormitory Authority of the State of New York processed the final reimbursement earlier this year after the village submitted records and documentation. “This long-delayed funding provides significant financial relief to our volunteer fire department and community,” Lennon said. “It’s a great event to celebrate a crowning achievement here in the Village of New Berlin.”

Thefts from unlocked vehicles reported in West Oneonta area

ONEONTA - New York State Police are urging residents to take a simple but critical precaution to prevent vehicle related thefts. Troopers have responded to reports of thefts from unlocked vehicles, making them easy targets for criminals. Most recently, incidents occurred in the West Oneonta area sometime between the hours of 9:00 p.m. on October 9 to 7:30 a.m. on October 10. Vehicles were rummaged through, a wallet was reported stolen and spare change was taken. Many of these crimes are a crime of opportunity, thieves are pulling on door handles until they find one that's unlocked. Some tips for community members: Always lock your car, even when parked in your driveway or garage. Never leave valuables in plain sight – if you must leave them in the car, store them in the trunk but the best practice is to take your valuables with you. Do not leave keys or key fobs in your vehicle. Park in well-lit areas whenever possible. Install cameras or flood lights at your residence. Report any suspicious activity by calling 9-1-1. Please take a few extra seconds to make sure your vehicles are locked and check on your elderly neighbors who may not be as aware of these crimes. - Information from the NYSP

Fleeing to another state will not prevent you from getting a ticket

A reminder to the public, fleeing in a motor vehicle to another state to avoid a ticket or an arrest will not prevent the New York State Police from finding you. Crossing state lines does not shield a person from legal consequences, it could potentially make charges even higher. On October 14, 2025, New York State Police at Binghamton arrested Austin L. Darrow, age 28 of New Milford, PA for the misdemeanor of Unlawful Fleeing of a Police Officer in a Motor Vehicle. On October 4, 2025, at approximately 5:45 a.m., a Trooper observed a Hyundai sedan following a vehicle too close on Interstate 81, then fail to stop at a stop sign at the bottom of the exit 1 off ramp near State Route 11, then again at the intersection of Conklin-Kirkwood Bridge. When the Trooper attempted to initiate a traffic stop, the operator took off at a high rate of speed, down several roads continuing to make more vehicle and traffic infractions and ultimately drove into the state of Pennsylvania. With the assistance of Pennsylvania State Police, Troopers were able to locate the vehicle and driver. Darrow turned himself in at the SP Binghamton barracks on October 14 and was processed. He was issued traffic tickets and an appearance ticket to the Kirkwood Town Court on November 5, 2025. - Information from the NYSP

S-E Football honors Seniors vs Phoenix, shows second-half fight despite adversity

BY MORGAN GOLLIVER
GAZETTE SPORTS EDITOR

SHERBURNE – The Sherburne-Earlville Timberwolves football team returned home on Friday night for its final home game of the 2025 season to take on friendly foe Phoenix in a rematch from the Sectional championship game. S-E also honored its senior players and cheerleaders prior to the contest. Congratulations to senior cheerleaders Abigail Pierce and Kyra Smith, as well as football players Tomek Jusianec, Justin Race, Lukas Schieferstein, Hadden Price, Michael Behret, Dustin Perry, Alex Campbell, and Camden Marino.

“Every year, we have the kids put a lot of effort into the program, so it’s always nice to hold that special event for those guys. We just adore them,” SE’s Coach Steve Franklin said. “Half of our seniors have never played football before, especially at the varsity level. A very inexperienced class, but those eight guys have given their all and we’re just super proud of them.”

The S-E crowd also got a big thrill when senior Tomek Jusianec also played the national anthem with his electric guitar, which was amazing. S-E put on a great battle with key plays, but Phoenix had strong play-makers, who dished out a solid 51-20 victory. S-E found its footing in the second half after being down 33-0 at the break, facing a lot of adversity with injuries to their top position players.

“The injuries have just derailed our season. We have a few guys in concussion protocol, a few guys with ankle injuries, that just keep gutting it out,” Franklin said. “We just don’t have a lot of depth and it’s starting to show. Love the kids, they fight whenever we ask them to, we’ve been pretty good at making some adjustments to do better in the second half.”

The Timberwolves made some good strides coming out for the second half, getting on the board in their first drive as Lukas Schieferstein and Justin Race got the offense moving down the field. Race scored on a three-yard reception from Schieferstein. However, Phoenix marched down the field themselves adding on to its lead, becoming a back-and-forth affair, which the S-E defense could not stop.

Schieferstein found the end zone himself on the following drive and then for the final touchdown of the night in the fourth quarter, Schieferstein found Nolan Sigman wide open in the end zone and had a successful two-point conversion.

“We just talk about not quitting, which is kind of tough at this point, but the kids keep showing up and put in a tremendous amount of work, just a good group of kids. One of the hardest working groups, just the injuries are killing us and the inexperience are showing, and hopefully we can get one next weekend,” Franklin said.

S-E (0-6) heads to Oswego (Class A) on Saturday at noon.

Congratulations to the Sherburne-Earlville football senior cheerleaders Abigail Pierce and Kyra Smith, along with senior football players Tomek Jusianec (3), Justin Race (5), Lukas Schieferstein (7), Hadden Price (13), Michael Behret (24), Dustin Perry (62), Alex Campbell (63), and Camden Marino (69)- not in order. S-E boys' soccer falls short to Clinton in Overtime

CLINTON – The Sherburne-Earlville Timberwolves boys' soccer team traveled to take on the Clinton Comets on Friday evening. S-E fell short 3-2 in overtime. Both teams stayed right on each other until the Comets scored the game-winner in the first overtime period.

S-E's James O'Connor and William Leinbach added to their goal totals in the loss. O'Connor now has four goals on the season while Leinbach is S-E's leading goal scorer with six on the season.

S-E's JJ Fischer made 17 saves in goal.

S-E (2-11) also fell to Sauquoit Valley in a 11 a.m matinee at Sherburne-Earlville High School on Saturday.

JJ Fischer made 10 saves for the Timberwolves in the loss.

The Timberwolves head to Camden on Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

CAR CARE

How to prepare for an out-of-town breakdown

Road trips make for excellent getaways. Whether you’re embarking on a weekend excursion or a lengthy vacation, driving yourself to your destination is a great way to travel, especially for families looking to save money.

Though no one wants to think about the possibility of a vehicle breakdown while out of town, such things do happen. How prepared drivers are can go a long way toward determining how affected they and their passengers will be if this happens.

- Get a checkup before skipping town. It sounds simple, but many drivers may overlook the importance of vehicle checkups before departing on weekend getaways or longer trips. A full checkup (including an oil change if the recommended interval has passed or is approaching) can uncover any problems that might derail a trip.
- Examine your options in regard to emergency roadside assistance. Insurance providers typically offer emergency roadside assistance to policy holders for a nominal fee, and memberships in clubs such as AAA also are inexpensive. That’s especially true when drivers compare the cost of extra coverage or AAA membership to the potential price tag of a tow truck and out-of-town repairs. Drivers should note that out-of-town repairs may require costly overnight shipping of parts so travelers can get back on the road as quickly as possible. Roadside assistance offered through an insurance company or motor club may include tow trucks free of charge up to a certain number of miles, allowing travelers to get their cars back home without breaking the bank.
- Inspect tires, including your spare. Many a road trip has been derailed or thrown off schedule due to a flat tire or tires. Before departing, check the condition of your existing tires, including the spare, as well as the air pressure in each one. Firestone notes that many vehicle manufacturers recommend replacing tires at six years, regardless of tread wear. Tires that get heavy usage should be replaced even more frequently. To determine if tread wear is something to worry about, Firestone recommends the penny test, which involves placing a penny head first into several tread grooves across the tire. If the top of Abraham Lincoln’s head is always visible, then your tires are shallow and worn and need to be replaced. But if part of Lincoln’s head is always covered, your tires can probably withstand the trip. Worn tire treads can make it hard for tires to safely navigate roads in inclement weather, so don’t discount the importance of this simple step.

- Bring along some basic tools. Pack some basic tools, such as screw drivers, wrenches, pliers, a trolley jack, a battery charger, and, of course, duct tape, which may help you temporarily solve some issues on your own. This is especially important for drivers who intend to visit remote locations where mobile phone networks may be inaccessible and the nearest tow truck might be far away. Hone your tire-changing skills before hitting the road and make sure tools are still capable of performing the kind of basic maintenance that might help your vehicle safely return to civilization.

Vehicle breakdowns happen, even while on vacation. Some advance preparation can help drivers avert out-of-town disasters. FC18A353

With their bright red underwings, the spotted lanternfly, or SLF, is a strikingly beautiful member of the planthopper family of insects. They are native to China, India and Vietnam. Recently, SLFs were accidentally introduced to other parts of the world, where they are considered an invasive species. Invasive SLFs often wreak havoc on the local environment because they are able to multiply and thrive due to a lack of natural predators to keep their populations in check.

Documented Aliens

Invasive SLFs have caused problems in many countries. SLFs were introduced to South Korea in 2006, Japan in 2009 and were confirmed in the eastern United States in 2014. Scientists believe SLFs will also be able to thrive in many areas where they have yet to be introduced, including southern Australia, southern Africa, most of Europe, southern South America and the Midwest and West of the United States.

A Bug's Life

SLFs prefer to lay egg masses on naturally smooth surfaces like smooth-trunked trees and stones, but will also lay eggs on smooth manmade objects, including cars, lawn chairs and farm equipment.

SLFs go through several stages of development before becoming adults. Young nymphs are black with white spots. Older nymphs have bright red patches along with white spots.

Lookout For The Spotted Lanternfly

This cartoon is out of control.

You could say my books have invaded the world.

What do you call a lanternfly without wings? A lantern-walk.

Why don't lanternflies like to play hide-and-seek? They are always spotted.

Why do lanternflies do well in school? They are very bright.

Feeding SLFs excrete a sugary waste called "honeydew." An infestation can produce large amounts of honeydew, which in turn can cause mold that can further damage the plant. The honeydew also attracts ants, bees and wasps.

SLFs feed by sucking sap from plants using special strawlike mouthparts capable of piercing through the tough outer tissue of plants.

Adult SLFs do not feed on the fruit or leaves of the host plant, preferring instead to feed on the trunk and limbs.

An infestation of SLFs can cause serious damage to the plant on which they feed. Often, the damage can result in the death of the plant.

SLFs are not great at flying, but are excellent hoppers.

What do you call a lanternfly that leaves the area? A lantern-fly.

SLFs look like moths, but are more closely related to cicadas.

SLFs do not sting or bite.
