

PROGRESS CHENANGO 2020

Our highly anticipated, annual review of the past year in Chenango County and look ahead into the new year, is approaching publication.

Every day for an entire week the Evening Sun dedicates itself to publishing a special section that reviews all the major business and community happenings of Chenango County in 2020.

Our reporters interview most of the major employers, government organizations and community groups in Chenango County and ask them for an assessment of the past year and future plans. We also reach out to community leaders and ask them to write articles in their own words.

Each section of this year's five-day series will explore how Chenango County navigated 2019 and how they intend to do so in 2020. We want to hear about their hopes, predictions and concerns.

Progress Chenango is a vast collection of stories told through interviews with county business leaders, local representatives, educators, small business owners, realtors, religious leaders, heads of non-profit and others, from the places we all live and call home. The section will also include many success stories told in the direct voices of advertisers who take advantage of our special Success Story offer.

As an advertiser you won't want to miss out on this great marketing and advertising opportunity - one, you can't afford to miss. And, as a potential reader too as Progress Chenango 2020 is sure to be another highly-read, keepsake series.
